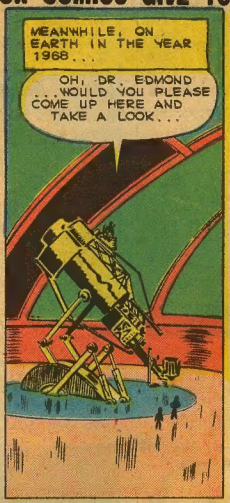
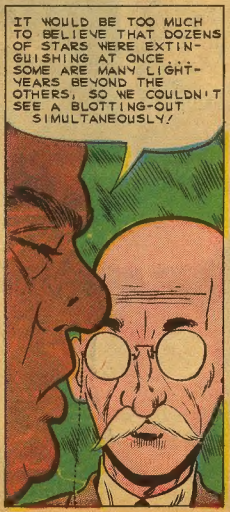
I SHALL LOOK IN THE REFERENCE BOOKS TO DETERMINE WHAT OUR ASTRONOMERS AT HOME KNOW OF THAT AREA... EXACTLY WHERE THE DART IS STUCK...
I HOPE WE CAN LAND AND EXPLORE THERE...



MEANWHILE, ON EARTH IN THE YEAR 1968...
OH, DR. EDMOND ..WOULD YOU PLEASE COME UP HERE AND TAKE A LOOK...

WHY THERE SEEMS TO BE A BLOTTING OUT OF STARS TOWARD ANDROMEDA!
BUT... WHAT WOULD DO THAT?

ASTRONOMERS, THE WORLD OVER WERE STARTLED BY THE SIGHT...



IT WOULD BE TOO MUCH TO BELIEVE THAT DOZENS OF STARS WERE EXTINGUISHING AT ONCE... SOME ARE MANY LIGHT-YEARS BEYOND THE OTHERS, SO WE COULDN'T SEE A BLOTTING-OUT SIMULTANEOUSLY!

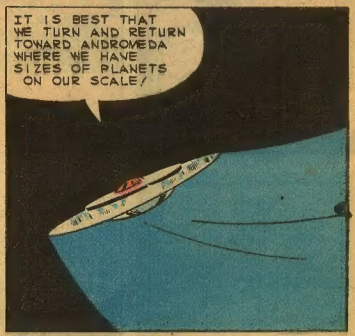
BUT LITTLE DID THEY KNOW THAT THE GIANT SPACESHIP WAS BLOTTING OUT THE STARS... AND THIS HAD HAPPENED 5 YEARS PREVIOUSLY SINCE IT TAKES 5 YEARS FOR LIGHT TO TRAVEL THAT GREAT DISTANCE!

OUTER SPACE

I'M AFRAID ALL THE PLANETS IN THAT AREA ARE NO BIGGER THAN THE KNOBS ON THOSE CONTROLS, MY SON/
THEN PERHAPS WE COULD TAKE A HANDFUL AND STRING THEM LIKE BEADS FOR MOTHER/

WE COULD DO THAT ...EXCEPT I AM OPPOSED TO THAT...
WHY NOT, FATHER? WHY WORRY ABOUT A FEW TRIFLING PLANETS?

OUR ASTRONOMERS BELIEVE THERE IS ADVANCED LIFE THERE THOUGH ON A VERY TINY SCALE...A HUMAN FORM MUCH LIKE US/ TO CAPTURE THOSE PLANETS WILL BRING CHAOS TO THAT SOLAR SYSTEM AND PERHAPS OTHERS THERE...



IT IS BEST THAT WE TURN AND RETURN TOWARD ANDROMEDA WHERE WE HAVE SIZES OF PLANETS ON OUR SCALE/

RELIEF WAS EVIDENT AMONG EARTH'S ASTRONOMERS WHEN AGAIN THE STARS IN THE BLOTTED OUT AREA SHONE/
IT MAY HAVE BEEN...A GIANT SPACESHIP THAT WAS THERE FOR A MOMENT/

A SPACESHIP/ DO YOU REALIZE HOW LARGE IT WOULD HAVE TO BE?

YES...FOUR BILLION MILES IN DIAMETER/ HAVE YOU ANY BETTER THEORIES?

STONE SWITCHER

"My wife told me we were going on a picnic. Just like that without even asking me if I wanted to go," said Detective Al Norton to his buddy, detective Ben Egan. "Seems she met an old friend of hers. So before I knew it we were getting the few items ready for a trip to Moundridge Reservation. I had never been up to that place. But Mrs. Warrent told my wife all about it. They have benches, tables, fireplaces, and nice shade under big trees.

Have you the slightest idea of how many things you really have to take with you just for a little picnic? A folding table, two chairs, tablecloth, bag of charcoal, dishes, knives and forks, thermos bottles, steaks, rolls, relish, cake, and everything else that can fit into two big baskets.

The weather man said it would be nice. So the Warrents called for us. We were to follow their car. Of course we lost them, but they gave us directions and after three hours on the road we finally got to this place. Was it crowded? Seems some big outfit was holding their annual picnic. We couldn't get a table or even near to a fireplace. Was I getting mad!

Then there was the usual excitement. One woman couldn't find her five year old son. Somebody played baseball and the baseball bounced off the top of a man's head. And at two in the afternoon the clouds decided to ignore the weather report. It came down in buckets. I will say this one thing. You come home so tired you certainly do get a good night's sleep."

The phone rang and Detective Ben Egan answered it. No need to continue on the topic of a picnic and what happens to the people concerned.

"Chief Edward Mirkus wants us in his office at once. Says he has a victim for us of the Stone Switcher. We will have to leave everything and get in there pronto. Come on! We can't keep the Chief waiting."

The police chief was proud of the two members of his Special Squad. They could handle anything from the ordinary routine matters to the toughest assignment. The door to his office was open and they walked in. A young man, of about twenty-five, was seated in a chair next to the chief's desk.

"Mr. Louis Sterne," began Chief Mirkus, "I want you to meet Detectives Al Norton and Ben Egan. Normally your type of case is turned over to the members of the Pickpocket and Confidence Unit. However, we have had two similar complaints during the week, and my two best detectives are on the case. So tell them exactly what happened."

"I don't live in the city," began the young man. "I live and work in Corham. That's a small town about fifty miles out on route 23A. I met a wonderful girl in the office. Helen Millers is her name. I came to the city to get her an engagement ring as a big surprise. I went to Grand Avenue near the Jewelry Exchange. I went window shopping. Looking at the displays of rings.

A well dressed man came up to me. Said he knew I was out to get an engagement ring. I told him he was correct and we talked about rings. Then he looked sad. Told me his tale of woe. He had just parted with his girl. Had given her a $5,000 ring. She returned it. He was so mad he was going to throw it into the river. Would I want it. The way he felt I could take the ring into any jewelry store and have it appraised.

He opened a little box and took out the ring. He gave it to me and I walked into a jewelry store alone. The man examined it very carefully. Said it was worth at least $6,000. I paid him five dollars and he gave me a statement of the appraisal. Then I walked out and there was the man. He told me his name was Arthur Yeckes.

I gave him $500 cash. Had that money in my wallet. He took the ring from me and put it into the box and gave me the box."

"That's when he made the switch," interrupted Detective Ben Egan.

"Right," continued Mr. Louis Sterne. "I went back home. The next day I gave the ring to my girl. She looked at it very carefully. Then insisted I go with her to a local jewelry store. He told me the stone was a fake but the setting was real platinum."

"Do you have the ring with you?" asked Detective Al Norton.

The young man took the box from his pocket and opened it. He took out the ring and gave it to the detective. In turn, Detective Al Norton took out two similar rings from his pocket.

"If you have a morgue with pictures of criminals, I could look at faces," suggested the young man.

"Would be a waste of good time," replied Detective Ben Egan. "The other two victims couldn't find his face. He's new at this type of swindle, at least in our city. But your ring gives us a needed clue."

"How?" asked a puzzled Mr. Louis Sterne.

"This swindler evidently had the three rings made up by some firm. All from the identical pattern. So we will try to find the firm that supplied the rings. You leave your address here and we will notify you if we get the swindler."

An hour later, both detectives were in the office of Mr. Jacob Popkin, president of the Jewelry Exchange.

"It's a shame about that type of swindle," sighed Mr. Popkin. "People should only buy from reputable jewelers. You get what you pay for in this world. Now let's see if I can help you. From the catalogs I can locate the firm that made the rings, or the settings as we call them."

Mr. Popkin thumbed through several pages and then made a notation on a sheet of paper.

"You go to the Leeds Jewelry Company. They are reliable people. I'll call Julius Leeds up on the phone and tell him you are coming. He'll help you."

The two detectives went to the office of the Leeds Jewelry Company. Mr. Leeds looked at the three rings.

"Sure we made the settings," he told them. "Let me check them in our files. We have a copyright on this design. Every setting we have has a very minute mark on the inside. Not visible to the naked eye."

Soon he had the information for the two detectives and it looked good.

"I remember this particular order. Wanted four of them made up. Said he would write to me and tell me when he wanted more. We got the letter in this morning's mail. With a postal money order in it. To be shipped out in a week to a Percy Putnam, in care of General Delivery, Main Post Office."

"We set up a constant watch with an assist from the Postal Inspectors," said Detective Al Norton.

Twelve days later a middle-aged man went to a window and bought some stamps. Then he looked around carefully. He went to a window marked: "General Delivery." He spoke in a low tone of voice.

"My name is Percy Putnam. I expect a small package. Is it in?"

The mail clerk went to a big safe. The safe was opened and there was the package with a special notation. He picked up the package and pushed a concealed button. Then he checked the identity of the man and handed him the package. Suddenly Mr. Putnam found himself surrounded by two men who produced their badges.

"Better come quietly and peacefully," suggested Detective Ben Egan. "You can tell us all about it down at headquarters."

"Gentlemen, you are making a dreadful mistake," said the man. "But I will go with you to police headquarters. There everything will be cleared up."

At headquarters, Percy Putnam, alias Joe Dana, alias Harry Brodoff, listened carefully to the evidence collected against him.

"My first visit and experience in your big city didn't exactly pay off big dividends," he admitted. "O. K. I'll write you the confession. It will save a lot of time."

He wrote a detailed account of how he had swindled the three men. Then he did his best to smile.

"So what do I lose? For this kind of felony I get from 3 to 5 years. Give me the minimum sentence and I can get out in a year and a half with good behavior."

"You are making a dreadful mistake," corrected Detective Ben Egan. "Each swindle was a separate crime in itself. You thus committed three felonies. You get the maximum sentence for each and they are not served concurrently. You will be behind bars for fifteen years."

"For a swindler, let it be said you swindled yourself out of fifteen good years of your life," added Detective Al Norton.

The Secret of How I Got My Build

Then I discovered a wonderful way to develop my body fast. It worked wonders for me—changed me from the scrawny "runt" I was at 17, into "The World's Most Perfectly Developed Man." And I can build up YOUR body the very same natural way — without weights, springs or pulleys. Takes only 15 minutes a day of pleasant practice, right in the privacy of your room.
